Welcome to May!

We have had a blessed year! It is with confidence that I send each child onto the next phase of the academic journey. I am confident that they are educationally prepared and have the untiring support of those at home to guarantee success.

Although I have worked to fulfill our educational goals, I believe that I am the one who has learned the most.

I will miss each one of my students greatly. They hold an irreplaceable spot in my heart. They are a part of my life that I will never forget.

With prayers for a successful second grade.

Stephanie Harrison

A Final Note

We have come to the end of our journey. With only a few days remaining, I would like to take this opportunity to express my thanks.

- ✓ For each parent who hurried a child down the hallway to class with only one minute to spare ~ thank you!
- ✓ For each parent who listened to the story of Abraham Lincoln (again) ~ thank you!

✓ For each parent who called out spelling words - one last time ~ thank you!

✓ For each parent who spent a few hours "herding" children on a field trip (especially when you had other things to do) ~ thank you!

✓ For making this year of teaching a blessing!

We couldn't have made it without you!
